2010 New Construction

Searching for the house they'd dreamed of near Charlotte, N.C., proved to be a challenge for Wray and Sarah Warner. After all, this couple - a professional chef and stable owner, respectively - could not find an existing space that would ideally meet their unique needs and busy, professional lifestyles.

Therefore, the best solution for them was to purchase 20 acres of land on which they could build their own custom dream home and create space for Sarah's three horses. So, the Warners turned to Schumacher Homes -- a national leader in custom on-your-lot homebuilding, to make their dream a reality. Shortly after selecting their builder, the Warners were selected as the winner of the "Great Green Giveaway," a promotion Schumacher Homes was running with Ply Gem, giving the couple the opportunity to upgrade their custom home using The Designed Exterior™ by Ply Gem.

The would-be homeowners chose the Craftsman architectural style for the look of their new home - beautifully complementing their personality and daily life. Next, the builder combined energy efficient, low-maintenance Ply Gem products including insulated vinyl siding; polymer shakes and shingles; stone veneer; and aluminum-clad wood windows. The result is a two-story home that blends the timeless charm of a center hall colonial with today's modern amenities. Since nearly all of the exterior products are low maintenance, the house is ideal for this busy couple - requiring very little upkeep to maintain its fresh appearance.
